

IRB Mentoring Support Program

Institutional Review Board, Human Subject Research Protection Program

<http://www.purdue.edu/research/vpr/rschadmin/rschoversight/humans/index.php>

Need help with your IRB protocol application? Are you uncertain as to how to approach requested revisions? If so, the IPFW IRB Mentoring program may help.

Created by the Office of Research, Engagement, and Sponsored Programs, The IRB Mentoring program was created as part of our ongoing efforts to assist IPFW faculty and staff with their research and sponsored program endeavors.

IRB Mentoring provides assistance to those who need or want help in preparing an IRB protocol application. Faculty members with IRB application experience will, upon request to ORESP, review your application or revision, and offer guidance as to how best fulfill the requirements of an IRB protocol application.

IRB Mentors for 2011-2012 are:

Marcia Dixson, Communication

Andy Downs, Political Science

Dan Miller, Psychology

John Stafford, Community Research Institute

Please do not contact the mentors directly. If you wish to utilize the service of one of the mentors, please contact Pat Farrell at 481.6164 or email Farrell@ipfw.edu.

Please note: you must provide a draft of your application to the mentor.

Use of a mentor does not relieve the investigator of the responsibility of ensuring the scientific integrity of the research, nor does it guarantee approval by the IRB.